Symposium on Hymn Writers.

The Wednesday evening social conference meeting of Unity church was held in the chapel room of the Young Men's Christian association building. The subject for discussion was a symposium on "The Hymn Writers of the Liberal Faith." Mrs. James B. Smith led the program by reading extracts from ancient hymns. Mrs. E. G. D. Holden followed with an epitome of the lives of some of the more modern hymn writers. By hymnography referred to songs of praise and gratitude set to music. She mentioned Bryant, Whittier, Henry and Samuel Longfellow, Scott, Flowers Adams, Anna Letitia Barlow, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Matthew Arnold, Julia C. R. Dorr and others. Mrs. C. S. Doherty gave extracts from three of the noted living Unitarian divines, James W. Blake, W. C. Gannett and E. L. Hosmer.

Columbian Society.

The Columbian lecture of Unity club held their last session for the season Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Town of No. 75 South Prospect street. Under the direction of Miss Ella Morrison the club has made a profitable and interesting study of the old masters, leading down to modern artists and taking up the architecture of the world's fair buildings and kindred topics. The social Monday night was not an art study class. A Poland gypsy told the young people of the past, present and future of their lives.

Reception to the Rev. Dr. Johnston.

In honor to the Rev. Dr. Digby Johnston of the Unitarian church, the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Clay of South Lafayette and Washington streets was on yesterday evening the scene of a happy event. A large number of guests were present. The large parlor was well adapted to the dancing that took place later in the evening. Mrs. Clay had decorated her home in a tasteful manner, and the evening was one of great enjoyment.

To Examine Applicants.

Henry C. Post is one of three musicians appointed as an examining committee for women applicants for piano playing in the woman's building in Chicago during the world's fair. WHAT YOU CAN BUY.

The Surprise a Young Married Couple Recently Experienced in Buying Goods.

"I tell you, Harold, we can do it and do it cheaply. She was a pretty creature, he a splendid specimen of young manhood. They both occupied a couch in her parlor's home. They were both young and recently married and had just returned from a wedding tour to Grandville and Hastings. His was a frugal salary sufficient to support both comfortably if economy was practiced. They had been about the important subject of furnishing a home, and Harold persisted in saying it could not be done short of $400. Bright, enthusiastic little wife that he was, insisted it could be done for less than half that sum. She was one of those clever women, who appreciated the value of a dollar and was a constant reader of the advertisements appearing in the papers. From her pretty lips flowed the words quoted above, her pretty feet lapped the carpet impatiently as she awaited the reply of her husband. "I tell you what I will do, Annette, take $200 and ask me for no more, if you can do what you say, you are indeed a jewel." The next week the couple were in their own home. The wife had selected her goods, had a pretty parlor suit, pictures and handsome carpet in her front room, a nicely furnished bedroom, sitting room, dining room and spare bedroom and kitchen, carpets on all floors except the kitchen, and on the dining room floor was a China matting. She had accomplished all this for $150 and in her purse for a rainy day in the other $50. Her man company furnished the outfit, as they do in the case of almost every newly married couple, and ordered the new bride early terms on her purchases. She paid cash though and her home is as comfortable and homelike as any in the city. Harold believes now his wife knows what she is talking about and blesses her for her businesslike proclivities.

WHO WILL GET IT?

Splendid Opportunities for the Fishermen Offered by Dettenthaler!

F. J. Dettenthaler is an enthusiast on the subject of fishing. It is a sport he greatly admires, and few men are more liberal and willing to promote the interests of this popular pastime. Since the case of F. J. Dettenthaler, there is nothing he enjoys so much as to see, resting peacefully on ice in his place of business, the largest black bass that has been caught with hook and line during the season. Mr. Dettenthaler games on such a beautiful specimen of the finny tribe with great pleasure and hundreds of interested people come to his store daily to help him admire the magnificent bass. To create an impetus in fishing circles and a bit of rivalry among the holders of the reel and rod, Mr. Dettenthaler offers a purse for the largest bass that is caught with hook and line this season. The fish must weigh eight pounds. Here is a splendid opportunity for some one to gain distinction and a monetary reward as well.
